

We can all support and acknowledge children's emerging values, morals and individual ways of doing things. We can all teach children the significance of rules and regulations and support them to develop negotiation skills. Children enjoy sharing their opinions and using their skills.

These activities support social and emotional development through the arts, play and creativity.

Remember there are no right or wrong ideas.

General activities 3

Activities:

- Can you build a pyramid out of playing cards?
- Make your own bookmark to use in your favourite book.
- Learn a bunch of jokes and tell them to others.

<https://www.onmoxieandmotherhood.com/around-the-house/kids-activities/best-jokes-for-kids/>

- Create a giant paper aeroplane.
- Domino fall - line up dominos next to each other, knock one over and watch them fall. Can you line the dominos up to create patterns or words?
- Indoor bowling alley - stack up some plastic cups, plastic bottles or blocks, and create your own bowling alley. Use a ball to roll down and see how many you can knock over.
- Mix n match - draw 4 matching pairs of faces, patterns or animals on some paper plates or pieces of paper. Mix them up and place them face down in a grid. Take turns to turn two over and see if you can find matching pairs. If they don't match turn them back over and try to remember which are where to collect the most pairs. Add to these for another day by drawing more pairs and develop your memory skills.